Title: Child Awaken Remixes

Release Date: 14th November 2011
Release ID: CW028

Welcome to the sounds of the Child Awaken remixes! After the breath-taking original mix of 2010 (click here) this unique collection was inspired by a remix competition run in conjunction with online music mag The VMM. The winner of the comp is Orlando based Subtle Fusion whose unique electronica shone out as a clear talent. In fact I liked what I heard so much that an album release is now planned for January 2012 so watch this space for more alternative subtle fusions of sound. As well as the remix winner the regular artists on City Wall also got behind the project and so we have ended up with a rainbow assortment of remixes ranging from the melodic gentle trance of Nelman to the abstract dark dub of Lady Vusumzi! All in all a true reflection of City Wall's musical heart.

Child Awaken (Subtle Fusion Remix) ▶

The magical fusion of so many rich elements is what drew me to pick this as the remix comp winner. Each sound is lovingly crafted and then somehow twisted into the mix. Expect much more of this on SF's forthcoming album.

Child Awaken (cr38 2011 Remix) ▶

cr38 never holds back on the tough kick drum intros and this mix is no different! Those same dreamy vibes of the original but on a super long play version. The crisp yet warm vibe is just perfect for blissed out summer relaxation.

Child Awaken (Tuomas Rantanen Instrumental) ▶

As the name suggests this one has all the elements of Tuomas's vocal remix but without the vocal! Made especially to appeal to beat loving tech heads who just want to indulge in an ethereal musical journey.

Child Awaken (Nelman Trance Remix) ▶

I love the sense of peace in this one. Some previous works by Nelman's have reminded me of the legend that is M.I.K.E. and this one does too. It is the careful synth work that does it. It must be the mechanic in Nelman.

Child Awaken (Lady Vusumzi Dub) ▶

Apocalyptic vibes! I think it is something in the strings that does it. Never scared of a bit of distortion (check out Code 9000 – Lady Vusumzi's other outfit). Definitely the most experimental of the pack and just loving it!

Child Awaken (Nelman Electro Remix) ▶

Smooth rhythmic breaks coupled with gentle variations of the original parts makes this a listening pleasure. Quality filtering adds lift and tension while subtle SFX give sparkle. Altogether a well balanced mix that sits well.

Child Awaken (Tuomas Rantanen Remix) ▶

This mix is cold, sinister and yet beautiful. Rantanen has made the strings remind me of a scene after battle with debris and bodies strewn across the land but the vocal is a reminder of better things to come.

Child Awaken (Ross Harper Dub) ▶

Stripped away and torn down to the barest of elements this remix has a brutal and raw edge. The fusion of rattling breaks and stomping drums create impact but it is the surprise synth and vocal drop in the breakdown that does it.
